

Jazz Composers Forum FREE PLANET RADIO

This coming Thursday March 11th at 7:00 PM in Kenilworth Presbyterian Church, one of the most talented group of musicians ever to grace Asheville will perform a 'NOT TO BE MISSED' concert of original music.

It takes more than a collection of talented musicians to form a real group. These three are individually masters of their instruments. To execute the intricate music and huge scope of styles they seamlessly blend, they HAVE to be. To witness a Free Planet Radio performance is more than just an awesome display of technique, or grooving to the poly-rhythmic layers they build. Chris Rosser, Eliot Wadopian and River Guerguerian have accomplished what few bands do in these times. They work as a unit, each serving the music and surrendering to the compositions they create. The music comes first...period! With their vast array of instruments from around the world they create layers of sound and infectious rhythms that draw the listener in and make them lose themselves in the music. It is one thing to do this with simple hypnotic groove music, but this world class group accomplishes this with the most challenging of musical genres. This is only possible with a real "band". Three master musicians working as one, communicating on the deepest levels with themselves and the audience:
